PART PLAYED BY THE STATE DIVISION OF BEACHES AND PARKS

Credit is due the Division of Beaches and Parks for their permission to use the Mission complex for the production of the Pageant. Were it not for this special permit, use of the State-owned Mission and grounds would be prohibited, and the Chamber of Commerce expresses its deep appreciation and thanks. Also, the Chamber wishes to especially thank the District Superintendent, Gordon Kishbaugh, and the local Superintendent, Cliff Bisbee, for their continued cooperation.

VIGNETTES OF SONOMA VALLEY HISTORY

For the purpose of selecting a site for a new Mission north of San Francisco Bay, Padre Jose Altimira, a Spanish missionary, set out with a small party to explore a wide area in June, 1823. Sonoma was enthusiastically chosen because of its benign climate, abundance of springs and streams, timber and stone, and accessibility by boat via Sonoma Creek from San Pablo Bay. The site in Sonoma was blessed on July 4, 1823, and later, a simple wooden church was built, with permanent adobe buildings erected during the next several years. The existing mission was built in 1840-41 as the pueblo's parish church.

In 1835, Don M. G. Vallejo was appointed Director of Colonization for the Northern Frontier and authorized to establish a pueblo (town). The vicinity of the Mission was chosen, with a grant by the Mexican government of four square leagues of land, (6,065 acres) for development by citizens. Between 1836 and 1846—the last years of Mexican rule—a number of adobe houses were built in the new village, and a small military post established. In 1836, the California provincial government appointed M. G. Vallejo Commandante General of the small garrison, and later the central Mexican government elevated him to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. Perhaps in 1836 or 1837, Vallejo erected the presently-standing two story adobe building for use as an armory and barracks, next to his own private residence, the Casa Grande. Later in 1851, Vallejo constructed "Lachryma Montis," (Tears of the Mountain) for his home, which is now a state historical monument.

By 1864, many Americans were in California, and on June 14, 1846, 33 Americans rode in and captured Sonoma without a shot. Vallejo was sent with his brother and brother-in-law to Sutter's Fort for safe-keeping. The Americans designed the crude Bear Flag and hoisted it in front of the Barracks, hoping to establish a new California Republic. However, the Bear Flag Revolt was terminated on July 9, 1846, when Lt. Jos. Revere, U. S. Navy, replaced the Bear Flag with the American Flag.

When Sonoma was a military post—July, 1846 to the end of 1851—many young army officers were stationed here for periods of time. Many of them later became high-ranking officers and won fame in the Civil War. Among them were U. S. Grant, William T. Sherman, Joseph Hooker, Philip Kearney, Jr., and George Stoneman. During this time, many theatrical performances were held by the soldiers, and it is possible these theatricals antedated those put on in Monterey. Therefore there is some question about Monterey having had the "first theatre" in California.

Sonoma rapidly became Americanized, and the sleepy little Mexican pueblo changed to a busy thriving community. Two or three lines of boats maintained regular service for passengers and freight to and from San Francisco. On Nov. 8, 1849, the Sonoma Post Office was established, second only to San Francisco in the state.

In 1850, when California officially became a state, Sonoma was incorporated and became the county seat. However, the county seat was transferred to the new town of Santa Rosa in 1852. Sonoma was disincorporated as a city in 1862, but was re-incorporated in 1882.

Among the new settlers of this early period were numerous foreigners, and many of them, including Americans, developed fine vineyards and produced wine and brandy. In the latter 1850's, Agoston Haraszthy, a Hungarian, bought a vineyard near Sonoma, the Buena Vista, and built a large winery. Later he went to Europe, and brought hundreds of cuttings of choice wine grapes, with which he developed the finest vineyard in the state. Ever since then, Sonoma has been noted for its fine quality wines.

THE ROADWAY TO THE VALLEJO HOME

Few visitors realize, as they drive up the tree-lined road to the historic Vallejo home, that most of these trees were planted over one hundred years ago by General Vallejo himself. In 1852, when the City of Sonoma wished to make the road part of West Third Street, Vallejo wrote the Councilmen stating he had planted the trees at great expense, and since he owned the land on both sides, he would like to purchase the proposed street as a private road to his Lachryma Montis estate.

On April 4, 1852, Vallejo received a deed which stated in part "Know all men by these presents that I, John Cameron, Mayor of the City of Sonoma, by virtue of the powers in me vested in consideration of the sum of twenty dollars paid by Benicia F. de Vallejo to the City Treasurer do hereby Grant, Convey and confirm unto the said Benicia F. de Vallejo all that piece of land lying in the City of Sonoma known as West Third Street, between Spain Street and Alp Street."

It was said by Senora Vallejo's youngest son, Napoleon, that his mother held in her hand or helped to plant every tree herself. Between the trees, she planted her husband's favorite flower, the fragrant Rose of Castile, which still blooms in the Spring and early Summer.

CHEESE-MAKING IN SONOMA VALLEY

Sonoma has always been noted for its fine cheese and one of the early cheesemakers of the late 1840's was Marie Brunner. She was also noted for her butter models made from cream which she kept in stone crocks in her adobe storehouse. She would take the substance and fashion it into animals of many kinds making the fleece of a lamb by squeezing the butter through the meshes of a square of fine muslin. When Fannie Vallejo married Capt. John B. Frisbie at the Casa Grande in 1851, Marie Brunner modeled the bride's centerpiece.

Soon after the turn of the century, Jose Vella, an Italian settler, started the first commercial cheese factory. Today there are two, the Vella Cheese Company, and the Sonoma Valley Cheese-Factory, the latter managed by Lawrence Viviani, who learned his trade under Vella.

These factories ship cheese all over the United States, supplying nationally known firms with Sonoma-made cheese which bears well advertised labels. Visitors intrested in Sonoma history often curtail their visit to historic shrines, in order that some of the delicious cheese may be taken home.

THE BLESSING OF THE GRAPES

O God, who for the welfare and happiness of mankind, didst create the fruits of the earth, we pray and beseech Thee that Thou wilt deign to look upon our friends and orchards and vineyards and continue to bring them in due season to blessed maturity.

We thank Thee for the richness of our soil in this Valley of the Moon,

THE BLESSING

for the springs of water and for the rain, for the heat of the sun which swells the plants in the freshly cultivated fields, beautiful to the eye and promising a rich harvest, and for the grape clusters telling us of Thy bounty. May we be ever grateful for Thy many favors. May we bask in the warmth of mutual sincerity and grow into a lasting trust and love of Thee.

Amen

This traditional, reverent and picturesque ceremony wherein the grape harvest is blessed by a spiritual descendant of Padre Jose Altimira, founder of the Mission San Francisco Solano, who performed this ceremony 141 years ago, is one of the most impressive of the ceremonies of our Vintage Festival.

Henry Maysonnave, together with the assistance of the Sonoma Valley Council of the Y. M. I. and the St. Francis Solano Mothers' Club are proud to present this event. The ceremony will start at 12:15 p. m. in the front of the Mission, Sunday Noon.

Father Rembert Ahles, O. F. M., officiating.

What Will You See at the Vintage Fair?

This, the first Vintage Fair is strictly a local presentation. All of the many interesting exhibits are those of local businesses. All of the many food and concession booths are operated by local organizations. The Future Farmers of America will have an exhibit.

There will be many fun rides provided by The Fun Fair Shows.

A parking lot is available adjacent to the Fair Grounds.

The Fair will be open from noon to 10 p. m. Saturday and Sunday evenings. Friday evening after 6 p. m. the fair will be opened by the Vintage Queen and princesses.

Whiskers, Costumes and Decorated Store Windows

We hope that you will see quite a few of the former two as you stroll through Sonoma Plaza and our Community Center area. The bewhiskered gentlemen will be judged in the Plaza Amphitheatre on Sunday at 1:45 p. m.

If there are not as many costumes as you'd like to see, blame it on modesty, self-consciousness or inability to produce a suitable costume of the early days. Most have been loaned for use in Sonoma's Store Windows.

And, by the way, give most credit for the interesting windows that you will see, to the merchants themselves; but save a lot of credit for the Sonoma Valley Woman's Club.

The historic buildings in the Sonoma Plaza area rank among the country's most interesting, and best preserved. Here was built the last of California's Missions. Here was the home of General Mariano G. Vallejo, Mexico's forward-looking Military Commandant. Here were planted America's first vintage grapes; and here the old-world art of fine winemaking was introduced.

These are only a few of the most important historic sites in the Valley of the Moon. There are many other landmarks, resorts and recreation centers you'll surely want to visit. Many of these are located in the charming communities of Boyes Springs, Glen Ellen, El Verano, and Kenwood. If you don't get to see them all on this trip, there'll be a hearty welcome awaiting you on your return.

SONOMA'S HISTORIC LANDMARKS

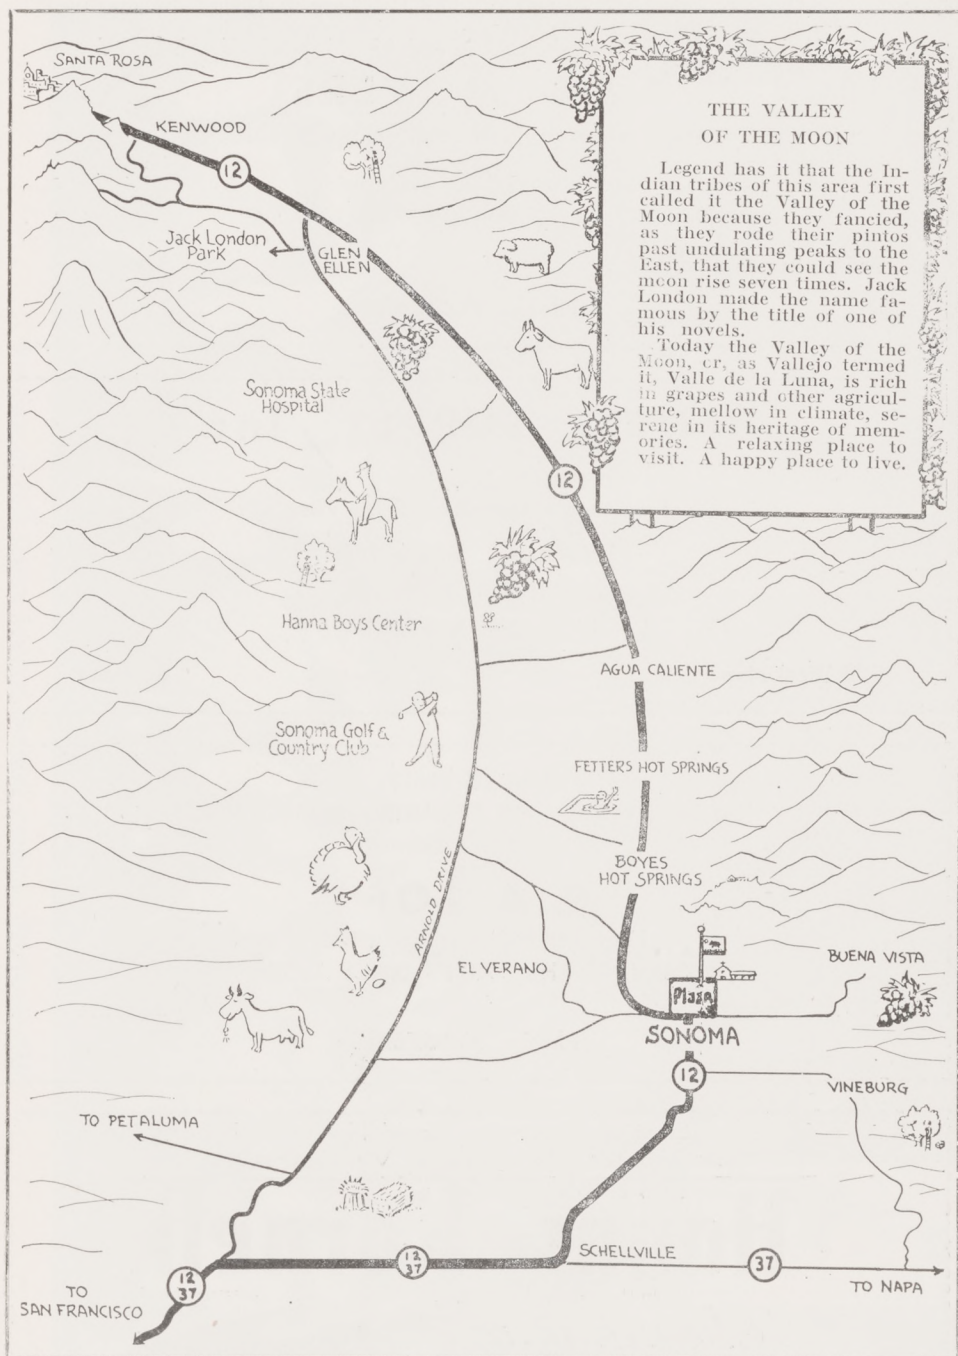

We hope you'll drop in soon at the Jack London Historical State Park in Glen Ellen. Here you may visit a museum filled with memorabilia related to the famed author. You may also inspect the ruins of the Wolf House.

Other must-see attractions in the valley are the Boyes Hot Springs health resorts, the Hanna Center for Boys, and the Sonoma Golf and Country Club.

This cartograph, contributed three years ago by our then new resident, Colonel "Morie" Morrison, is repeated to emphasize the point that ours is A VALLEY-WIDE FESTIVAL. Try, please, to visit ALL PARTS of "the Valley of the Moon."

CHILDREN'S PARADE SATURDAY

The annual Children's Parade is scheduled for noon on Saturday, September 19, with local children and costumed visitors alike, invited to participate. Theme of the parade is the "Turn of the Century." It's a traditional event and one enjoyed equally by the marching petite pioneers and their doting parents. Giggles, waving and picture-taking are the order of the day.

Don't forget your camera for this event. The Vintage Festival Children's Parade is worth photographing.

Credit for its success goes to Frank Pensar, who has helped for many years to organize the event. Frank Hall is chairman.

SEE OUR COMMUNITY CENTER

Most Vintage Festival events are located in or near Sonoma's historic Plaza, but some very important ones are to be found in, or just back of our Community Center, 276 East Napa Street, Sonoma. All exhibits will be held both days, Saturday and Sunday, September 19 and 20.

These include the 13th Annual Flower Show, sponsored by the Valley of the Moon Garden Club. Mr. Harold Mills is President of the Garden Club and is in charge of the flower arrangements. Coffee and sandwiches will be served.

The Center will serve a Ham Dinner Saturday evening, 5 p. m. to 8 p. m. A Country Store, sponsored by the Senior Citizens, will also await visitors both days.

In back of the Community Center is the barbecue area where the Adobe Grange will serve a mouth-watering full meal featuring barbecued chicken, coffee and dessert, from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m., Sunday, September 20. Cost is $1.50.

And if you like your beauty without a frame, either picture or window . . . notice our beautiful "Mission Belles" who serve as hostesses in their colorful costumes.

The Art Exhibit, sponsored by the Sonoma Valley Art Center will be located in the Auditorium of the Community Center.

Grocery, Produce, Meat and Frozen Food Departments

Extra-wide Aisles in all Departments

The Fiesta Market is owned and operated by the Mohar Family, in the grocery business for over 35 years in Sonoma County. Veteran Grocer Les Ore manages the Grocery Department. Nate Del Querra, well-known in this trade, heads the Meat Dept. Popular Jim Porter, who has many friends here, is in charge of the Produce Department.

TWINNING CELEBRATION

Chambolle-Musigny, France, Sonoma's twin city, will be honored in the annual celebration of international and inter-city relations in the Sonoma Plaza amphitheatre on Sunday, September 20 at 2:15 p. m. Sonoma's Mayor Charles Allen is chairman of the event.

Sonoma and its French twin city, Chambolle-Musigny, in the province of Burgundy, are much alike in their lush, rolling vineyards and cool, historic wineries. A fine red Burgundy is the product of the French winemakers.

The cities were first "twinned" in a display of international good will in Sonoma in 1959, with return ceremonies held in Chambolle-Musigny in 1960.

This year, the official City Family of Sonoma will meet with the official representatives of the French Colony from San Francisco. This traditional event provides a social gathering wherein these two cities so similar in their size, climate, community culture and viticultural interests, may be brought closer together. This will be the 5th Anniversary of this twin city program.

WHERE TO EAT?

Our Valley is famous for its fine restaurants. You will find several in or near Sonoma . . . and others in El Verano, Boyes Hot Springs, Glen Ellen and up Kenwood way. And, in addition to the regular restaurants, several Fiesta Way booths are offering snacks or even rather substantial food service, and desserts, and we mustn't forget the Ham Dinner at the Community Center, Saturday, 5 p. m., and the Adobe Grange Chicken Barbecue starting at noon Sunday at the Community Center.

Don't Miss the Railroad Photographic Exhibit!

You will find it across from the Plaza on Spain Street. As in the case of the "Sonoma Express" Excursion on September 20th, we are indebted to the Railway and Locomotive Historical Society for it.

Incidentally, Robert Parmelee, prominent local attorney, who includes historic railroads among his hobbies, urges that you contribute to the completion of the photo exhibit, if at all possible, by submitting photos or postcards of railway trains or stations to him at Drawer G, Sonoma.
